noon

Break for lunch and discover the culinary charm near the Louvre, with a variety of cafes and bistros offering authentic French cuisine. From cozy sidewalk cafes to traditional bistros, the dining experience is a delightful fusion of gastronomy and Parisian charm. Whether you opt for a leisurely lunch with a view of the Seine or a quick bite in a historic alley, the nearby culinary offerings promise to complement your cultural exploration with a satisfying blend of flavours.

Sainte-Chapelle:

1:00pm

Sainte-Chapelle stands as a jewel of Gothic architecture and a testament to medieval craftsmanship. Nestled within the medieval Palais de la Cité, this 13th-century royal chapel captivates visitors with its stunning stained glass windows, depicting intricate biblical scenes and vibrant hues that illuminate the interior with ethereal light. Commissioned by King Louis IX, the chapel was designed to house precious relics, and its soaring architecture and delicate details showcase the devotion and artistic brilliance of the time.

Montmartre & Sacre Coeur:

12.30pm

Nestled on a hill overlooking Paris, Montmartre exudes a bohemian charm and artistic allure. At its summit stands the majestic Sacré-Cœur Basilica, its white domes a beacon of tranquility and architectural splendor. Wandering through the narrow cobblestone streets of Montmartre, visitors encounter vibrant cafes, artistic ateliers, and the echoes of a bygone era when painters like Picasso found inspiration in its ambiance. The Basilica itself, a masterpiece of Romano-Byzantine design, welcomes with mosaic-adorned interiors and panoramic views that stretch across the city.

Free Time:

6:00pm

After a stimulating day of activities, take a rest and change for dinner.

Dinner in Latin Quarter:

7.30pm Your guide will transport you from your hotel to savour the culinary delights of the Latin Quarter, where charming bistros and cafes line cobblestone streets steeped in history. As the sun sets, enjoy diverse dining options, from traditional French brasseries to international flavours. Whether nestled in a cozy corner bistro or on an open-air terrace, a dinner in the Latin Quarter offers a delectable gastronomic journey amid the intellectual and cultural vibrancy of this iconic Parisian neighborhood.
